Vinci UK ties with local Colleges and Universities of Sheffield have been furthered recently.

At the request of the LEP Vinci UK arranged with the University of Sheffield to facilitate a case study project in conjunction with the Management module of the MSc in Civil Engineering.

Dr Rachel Horn, Gary Finney and Tim Riley of Vinci UK together with Sheffield City Council have commenced the project which includes a student study of Design, Cost and Project Management using the proposed King Edward VII BSF School as a model.

The team were also joined by Chloe Jackson a work experience student from nearby Barnsley College. Chloe, assisted by Vinci UK is also now acting as a study link between the College and University.

Vinci will be supporting the project further by providing visiting lectures to the University team over the coming months to provide specific learning in Project Finance and Management.

Further links have been established with King Edwards 6th Form students also joining the study team. (The assistance of Mr Huw Parker is acknowledged, Deputy Head at KES).
